Railroads Improving City Crossings

By BOB SCHREPP

Star Staff Writer
Robert Obering, acting director of public works, reported Friday that railroad lines serving Lincoln have begun improvement work on track crossings that intersect city streets.

"They have been making progress, but it has been slow because of lack of finance and materials," Obering said, adding that "it appears that it will be a year before all crossings are completed."

Complaints by citizens and City Council members last spring prompted Mayor Dean Petersen to inform the presidents of lines serving the city that the city expected rough crossings to be brought up to standard.

Not Pressed

Explained Obering: "They (the railroads) have let their crossings go because nobody pressed them. Now we have put the heat on and the improvements will be more expensive and probably not budgeted for."

"They are beginning to cooperate the best they can with the money they have," he said.

Listed by Obering as signs of progress:

—A promise by the Rock Island Railroad to ship precast crossing planks, which had been in short supply, within two weeks in order to improve major crossings across the city.

—A letter from Union Pacific president Edd Bailey notifying the city that rail crossings in Lincoln would be improved.

Obering said the multi-track Rock Island crossing on Vine, between 18th and 20th, would be improved in connection with the Vine Street widening project. Work will start in August.

Rock Island has applied to the State Railway Commission to remove three of the tracks, he said.

THIRD NEGRO KILLED

... In Cleveland

Cleveland, Ohio (AP)—Gunfire Friday took the third life since rioting exploded four days ago in a Negro slum and blazed into a nightly guerrilla warfare by fire-bombing arsonists.

"We are fighting a guerrilla war," said Col. Robert Canterbury, commander of nearly 2,000 National Guard troops called up last Tuesday after two nights of wild rioting by Negroes.

As the firebomb attacks lulled during the day, Police Chief Richard Wagner disclosed at a news conference his men had found a makeshift firebomb school.

Dawn Shooting
The third killing came at dawn. A Negro man, Samuel Winchester, 34, was felled by a bullet near a bus stop about three miles from the trouble center of Hough (pronounced "Huff").

Before he died, Winchester gasped that his assailant was a white man, shooting from a car.

A few hours later, Negro Councilman M. Morris Jackson called on Mayor Ralph S. Locher to demand martial law for the riot-struck area after violence had left three Negroes dead, more than 30 injured and heavy, continuing property damage.

No Decision

Locher conferred with National Guard officers and police officials. Then he announced that a curfew and martial law still was under consideration but no action had been decided upon.

An 850-man Guard unit from the Cleveland area was pulled home from summer training at Camp Grayling, Mich., 24 hours ahead of the original schedule. An aide of Gov. James A. Rhodes said in Columbus there were no plans to use the Guardsmen in Cleveland "as of now."

The police chief said he was convinced that firebombs were being manufactured at an East Side house used by a militant Negro group.

But Lewis Robinson, director of the suspected "freedom" house, said the suspicion of the police chief was groundless.

"It's the same old story—condemn, condemn, condemn," said Robinson, a Negro.

"We know there is a school training these kids how to make fire bombs," Wagner said. But no ringleader has been nabbed.

FBI Checking
Locher said FBI agents are checking for any outsiders who might be instigating the trouble. All police units were ordered to keep watch for out-of-state license plates.

Despite the constant patrols by Guardsmen and police, fear and hysteria were reported among residents of the riot area.

"People are scared, becoming hysterical," said Col. Dana Stewart of the National Guard.

Negro Attack Scattered

New York (AP)—Forty-five Negro youths—chanting "get the whites"—charged toward the white section of a Brooklyn slum area Friday night, police reported.

Police in five radio cars closed in on the gang as it raced through the East New York section—scene of the city's worst racial conflict since the riots of two summers ago.

Police scattered the youths—aged 17 to 25—and chased them away from a predominantly Italian-American section and back towards the Negro section of East New York.

Knives and clubs were taken from some of the youths, police said. Eight of them were arrested.

11-Year-Old Killed

The arrests were made about eight blocks from a where racial fighting flared and an 11-year-old Negro boy was killed by sniper fire Thursday night.

Police reserves had been bolstered against any explosion of the race riots into other parts of the city during the weekend. Mayor John Lindsay called up on New Yorkers to "stay calm."

Police Commissioner Howard Leary scheduled the deployment of 1,000 police in the East New York tenement slum section of Brooklyn, where an 11-year-old Negro boy, Eric Dean, was killed.

SHOOTING ENDS NEGRO GANGS' CHICAGO TRUCE

Chicago (AP)—A rash of teenage Negro shootings broke out on the South Side early Friday only hours after leaders of two Negro youth gangs publicly pledged their groups to end their ways.

But the leaders of the two gangs—the Blackstone Rangers and the East Side Disciples, which claim more than 2,000 youngsters in their combined membership—blamed the wounding of five youths on a third gang, the Englewood Disciples.

One of those wounded claimed Ranger membership. However, another told police he recognized his assailant as a Ranger member, and a third said he had been threatened by members of the Rangers because he would not join their gang. The shootings occurred in the domain of the Rangers.

Thursday night by a sniper's bullet, during sharp but limited disorders.

Fire Units

East New York fire companies also were manned at full strength, mindful of a pattern of arson that has affected other cities during racial riots.

"We are deeply concerned about this situation," the Republican mayor said of the East New York rioting that involved Italians and Negroes. Police headquarters determined that the youngster, shot in the chest, was killed by a .25-caliber bullet, probably from a foreign make gun. Leary said the death weapon was not a police pistol.

Community leaders in East

New York have charged that well-financed, professional agitators from the outside have been stirring up Negro and Puerto Rican teenagers.

Negroes Silent In Jacksonville

Jacksonville, Fla. (UPI)—A meeting that could hold the key to Jacksonville's racial peace broke up Friday with Negro leaders giving no indication whether they were content with the city's integration "progress report."

Negroes had submitted a list of eight demands and said they expected action on at least two of them.

Quick Escape Attempt Best For Captured Girls

By DICK BUDIG

Star Staff Writer

An old Army tactic could very well be a lifesaving maneuver for girls caught in a situation similar to the recent Chicago nurse massacre, according to Dr. James M. Reinhardt, a nationally known criminologist.

In most fighting units of the military, men are taught that the best time to escape is during the confusion immediately after being captured.

"I would advise that they try escaping as a first resort, not as the last resort," Dr. Reinhardt, a 32-year veteran of the University of Nebraska who is now retired, said.

Besides writing several books on the subject, Dr. Reinhardt taught criminology, social psychology and abnormal behavior. He has also been called upon to testify as an expert in murder trials.

Several Reasons
Dr. Reinhardt said there are several reasons for urging the tactic of attempting immediate escape in such a situation.

The type of man who commits such a heinous crime as the Chicago nurse slayings is, at best, an uncertain individual.

Every inch of ground given by his quarry serves only to bolster his confidence, Dr. Reinhardt said, emphasizing that he was talking about a type of person, and not about the man now in custody for allegedly slaying the nurses.

For the most part, persons of that type never mature much beyond the infantile level, the white-haired doctor said.

"They can't face reality and so they live a great deal of their time in fantasy, something they can manipulate," he said.

Represses Failure

Further, this type usually does not get along well with girls and is not self-confident about them or himself in relation to them. Also, this type usually represses failure which often takes very symbolic forms.

Often the type has never had a very satisfactory sex relationship and turns to hating women.

One question which is most important, Dr. Reinhardt said, is why, in the first place, a girl would let a total stranger in the house?

Besides laws covering the use of dormitory type housing, the criminologist said chain locks should be installed on all doors and girls should make use of them.

In addition, he said, some sort of signal device, like a buzzer, should be built into the residence in an inconspicuous but handy place.

Housing of this type should not be rented or provided until the local police department has inspected it for these safety features, he said. And, in dormitory-type housing where a housemother is employed, it should be against the law for her, or her replacement, to be out of quarters, or out of earshot of the built-in alarm.

Made Bolder
In his "get out quickly" philosophy Dr. Reinhardt noted that "their chances aren't likely to get better once someone gets in. Acquiescence makes that type bolder, more confident."

Rather than remaining calm, anything done to destroy this type of man's confidence would help, Dr. Reinhardt said.

Police Inspector Robert Sawdon, commenting along the same line, said, "We have always felt that woman is the only creature with a built-in alarm."

Inspector Sawdon explained that most attackers will try to avoid having any attention called down upon them. And kicking or screaming is at least one form of attention-getting.

Viet Cong Has Food Trouble

... AMERICAN EFFORTS BEHIND IT

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
New York (AP)—By their own account, the Viet Cong are suffering from food shortages produced by intensification of the war, and fear that this situation will become increasingly critical for them.

Apparently, the food supplies of the insurgents in Viet Nam have been hard hit in central Viet Nam and in Saigon's Gia Dinh province. There is a note of urgency in their appeals to people under their control and in emergency measures they are taking.

Guerrillas and troops engaged in actual fighting are being ordered also to engage in the production of rice and other crops.

Old people, women and children are being mobilized in Viet Cong-controlled areas to step up production. A campaign has been started to enforce thriftiness among the peasants and the troops in the use of food.

U.S. Troublesome
The Viet Cong's food problems come to light in propaganda broadcasts of the National Liberation Front, their political arm. These broadcasts concede that the stepped-up U.S. military effort has created grave difficulties for the guerrilla fighters.

Liberation Radio, the voice of the Viet Cong, said:

"Of course, under present fierce war conditions, the problem of food production will encounter many difficulties . . . Discussions must be held with a view to overcoming all thoughts of fearing hardships . . . with regard to the small quantities of items in stock and to combating the tendency of . . . fearing days of hunger."

The broadcast called upon agencies in areas under its control to find "ways of solving these obstacles," to step up production and afford sufficient food "to feed the masses and intensify the resistance."

The broadcast demanded that the Viet Cong solve its two most important food problems quickly: manpower and funds.

Women, Troops

With regard to Gia Dinh province, it said, "it is necessary to mobilize women to engage in production. The guerrillas, troop units and agencies must engage in producing food and secondary crops."

It demanded enlarged acreage for secondary crops such as sweet potatoes, corn and soybeans, while seeking a simultaneous stepup in rice production.

Liberation Radio has revealed that the front's "economic and financial subcommittee" held a conference in April to discuss "production and thrift tasks" throughout all Viet Cong areas. The broadcast complained of decreased production not only because of the war, but also because of insects and drought.

The escape was revealed Saturday by the U.S. military command. Details were withheld to protect other prisoners who might be involved.

The escaped prisoner was a Navy Lieutenant who had been held by the communists for about five months, an informed source said. He had marched through the jungle for 23 days when he was spotted from the air in what was called a "one-in-a-million" sighting.

A rescue operation was set up and an Air Force "Jolly Green Giant" helicopter was sent in and picked up the Navy flier. He was reported to have been picked up in the southern part of North Viet Nam near the northern border of the demilitarized zone.

His next of kin have been notified of his return, the U.S. command said, but his name was withheld. The U.S. command would give no reason for withholding his name except to say that security was involved.

His condition is described as satisfactory now although he evidently is still very weak. He apparently survived in the jungle trek on a threadbare diet of roots and whatever edible things his survival training had taught him to look for.

Brazilians Concentrate On Food, Love, Football—Not Politics

By JOHN DEFRAIN

"Socialism in Brazil is a hobby of some professors, some artists, some writers," said a laughing Antonio Teixeira de Sao Paulo, a university instructor in the South American city of five million.

But, he said that because of a general lack of education, Brazilians as a whole rarely consider any kind of political "ism." Instead, they think of food, love, football. It is a "tragedy that Brazil is not world champion in football."

Antonio and his friend Manoel Jorge are taking a physics course in summer school at Nebraska Wesleyan University. After a short stop in Boston they will return to Sao Paulo University where they both teach for the Brazilian Institute of Education, Science and Culture, a department of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

Though he said "sub-developed" Brazil is 20 years behind "super-developed" United States, Antonio believes it has better conditions than most South American countries.

Relations between the two countries are good, he said. Brazil exports 80% of its goods to the United States. Antonio said the trade is "a question of life" to Brazil.

"For us," said Antonio, "education is the key that opens all the doors." Manoel, who speaks little English, can read well enough to get "very good" grades at NWU. Antonio said it was because he is brilliant.

4-State Red Federation Eyed By Polish Plans

KREMLIN LIKES GOMULKA'S IDEA

Vienna, Austria (AP)—A former Polish diplomat says Poland has worked out plans for a four-nation federation in Eastern Europe to arrest the Romanian-led political and military disintegration in the Soviet bloc.

Wladyslaw Tykocinski, once head of the Polish military mission in West Berlin, told Radio Free Europe in an interview carried Friday that the plan was masterminded by Polish Communist Party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka with Kremlin approval.

Tykocinski said the federation, planned as a "northern tier," will comprise the Soviet Union, Poland, East Germany and Czechoslovakia. He did not explain how it would work.

Officials of the private, American-sponsored radio said his statement is a first inside account of the developing friction within the Warsaw Pact and Comecon, the East European economic organization.

Tykocinski defected to the United States in May last year after 27 years in the service of the Polish Communist Party. His present whereabouts were not disclosed.

The former diplomat said Gomulka held the belief that his plan would "help maintain unity within the Communist camp—or at least that part which can still be saved."

Referring to Romania's independent course in the military and economic spheres, Tykocinski said Gomulka and the Russians realized that "the southern flank is slipping away from Russia's grasp."

Priority Of Importance

"The more they lose control over satellites in East Europe, the greater the importance they attach to their northern flank—and thus to East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia," he said.

Tykocinski explained that from the strategic point of view these countries emerged as the pillars of the Warsaw Pact, while others such as Romania and Bulgaria were considered less important. He said nothing about Hungary, where the Russians have strong armed forces.

"Faced with the conflict with China in the Far East, the Soviets were forced to differentiate between the satellites they want to keep in rein and those who play a relatively less important role," he said.

Tykocinski said.

"The Polish initiative was, to Moscow, a gift from heaven, more so because it did not come from them but from Poland."

Goes Back To 1959

He said Gomulka's plans date back to 1959. He recalled that during the 1964 Polish Communist Party congress, Gomulka continued to press his scheme aimed at bringing Poland even closer to the Soviet Union and East Germany.

"Instead of exploiting the conflicts within the socialist camp and taking advantage of the fact that the Soviets have their hands tied with the China problem (as the Romanians are doing) Gomulka's only concern is how to help Moscow in saving the unity of the Communist movement," the ex-diplomat said.

About his defection, Tykocinski had this to say:

"On that day in May last year, I felt an irresistible desire to get out of this moral filth, the mutual intrigues, the struggle of the various cliques, mutual spying, tapping and denunciations. I knew I could not free myself of it in any other way than other way than by staying in the West."

Polish Reds Proclaim Selves Heir To 1,000 Years

Warsaw, Poland (AP)—The Communist government proclaimed itself heir to 1,000 years of Polish history Friday with a dazzling military review featuring everything from spearmen to rocket troops and supersonic MIG21 jets.

The four-hour parade through downtown Warsaw climaxed the state celebration, and was combined with the anniversary of the founding of the Communist regime July 22, 1944.

"Today we celebrate the state millennium, linking it with the 22nd anniversary of the assumption of power by the working people and the victorious crowning of 10 centuries of our history by creation of a people's state," declared the defense minister, Marshal Marian Spychalski.

He spoke in front of the Warsaw Palace of Culture. Beside him were Communist Party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka and other leaders of the party and government.

Raps U.S. Germany

Spychalski said world peace and freedom are "imperiled by imperialists and especially the brutal American imperialist aggression against the Vietnamese people."

He added that European peace and security "are undermined by the militarist, revenge-seeking, irresponsible policy of Bonn (West Germany)."

Most Western ambassadors were present but the U.S. embassy was represented by a third secretary. U.S. Ambassador John A. Gronouski left Thursday for a weekend in Denmark and diplomats felt he might have decided to be absent in anticipation of anti-American oratory.

Thirty-five Soviet-made Ilyushin 28 bombers roaring overhead formed a Polish eagle to start the military show which, hours later, was followed by a parade of 42,000 youth, sportsmen and acrobats from throughout the country.

The bombers were followed by fighters jet forming the figures 1,000 for 1,000 years. Then came formations of MIG19s, 48 supersonic MIG21s and Polish-made Iskra jets, similar to the MIG17.

Pageantry Impressive

Watchers seemed more impressed, however, by the historical parade, starting off with 64 precisely marching sword, shield and spear bearers in metal helmets and tunics from the army of Polish King Boleslaw the Brave. His reign started in the year 992.

The historical parade ended with a unit of soldiers dressed as they entered in Berlin in 1945.

The parade of modern units included amphibious vehicles, shore defense rockets, ground-to-air missiles similar to the West's Nike, and medium range tactical rockets.

Freeman: Wedge Is Being Used . . . ON FARMER

Janesville, Wis. (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman urged farmers Friday night not to allow the "politically avaricious" to drive a wedge between them and their government.

"I needn't tell you that the campaign to separate the farmers and their government has already begun . . . I have seen it out here," the secretary said.

Freeman voiced his appeal in a talk prepared for what he calls a "report and review" meeting with farmers.

The secretary is on a midwestern tour through Indiana, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Nebraska and Iowa to review administration farm policies.

Clear Up Confusion

"I want to do my best to clear up any confusion or misunderstanding that exists about actions taken or statements made during a tense situation in our national economy," he said.

Freeman referred to actions taken by the administration last winter to help halt advances in farm and food prices—actions which drew criticism from many farm groups.

Freeman said: "The remarkable progress we have made since 1960 was made because the farmer and his government worked together to put the right kind of legislation on the books, lived up to our respective responsibilities under that legislation and kept faith with one another."

Higher Incomes

Freeman offered statistical comparisons between farm income in 1960 and the present. He said net farm income has increased 20% and that the net income per farm has increased 55%.

China Flays U.S. 'Aggressor'

Tokyo (UPI)—United States aggression in Viet Nam is aggression against Red China, the Chinese Communist president told a banner-waving rally of one million in Peking Friday, the New China News Agency reported.

"The Chinese people have made up their minds and have made every preparation to take such actions at any time and in any place as the Chinese and Vietnamese peoples deem necessary for dealing joint blows at the U.S. aggressor," President Liu Shao-chi said.

Chinese communist officials at the rally declared that neither the Geneva agreements nor the halting of American bombing of North Viet Nam could end the Vietnamese war.

Liu said Red China with its 700 million population was "the reliable rear area of the Vietnamese people."

His strong speech was followed by the assertion of Vice Premier Tao Chu that the Geneva agreements on Viet Nam "are already nonexistent."

Liu said the Peking regime was no longer bound by the Geneva agreements: "You (U.S.) have torn the 1954 Geneva agreements (partitioning Viet Nam) to shreds."

Marines Fight In Dark

Saigon (AP)—U.S. Marines fought a five-hour battle in darkness with North Vietnamese regulars Friday night near the demilitarized zone separating North and South Viet Nams and killed 25 more of the enemy, U.S. military headquarters said Saturday.

In the air, Communist MIG-17s sent air-to-air missiles chasing after a flight of U.S. jets over North Viet Nam but failed to score any hits. The U.S. planes fired a few rounds, a spokesman said, but scored no hits on the MIGs.

As the Marines scoured the hills near the 17th Parallel looking for the scattered North Vietnamese 324th Division, South Viet Nam announced it has protested to the International Control Commission against communist troops infiltrating south through the 6-mile-wide demilitarized zone.

A protest note to the commission complained that the infiltrators launched large-scale attacks July 15 in Quang Tri Province.

In Saigon, meanwhile, a young Buddhist monk who was badly burned Thursday when his gasoline-soaked robes caught fire in an unexplained incident, died Friday night.

Thich (Venerable) Hue Hong, 24, told police he thought someone had tried to kill him but said he was unable to explain how his clothing became soaked with gasoline.

In another development, Hanoi published a long memorandum charging U.S. warplanes had attacked churches, schools, hospitals, dikes, dams and other populated areas in the past six months and killed several civilians.

Gemini 10 Cape Unit Gets Credit

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP)—Bubbling with praise for the launch team that helped them rewrite space record books, the Gemini 10 astronauts flew to Cape Kennedy Friday and began 10 days of brainstorming sessions that will fill in the gaps of their Buck-Rogers-style adventure.

"We had a very interesting and I think a very successful mission," said Gemini 10 command pilot John W. Young.

"It looks like we got 100% more than we thought," agreed Donald K. Slayton, director of flight crew operations.

"Those things which we were able to do on the flight were the direct result of all the superb work that was done here at the Cape," spacewalker Michael Collins, an Air Force major, told the launch crews.

"It's certainly nice to be back," noted Navy Cmdr. Young. "We were up over 400 miles and Columbus was right—the world is round."

More than 200 persons—including a delegation of congressmen from the House subcommittee on manned space flight—met the returning astronauts after a 91-minute helicopter flight from the prime recovery ship Gaud canal.

The 35-year-old spacemen brought back a bundle of space "firsts"—including an altitude record, most time linked with another satellite, using power from a captured satellite to drive them through the skies, first dual rendezvous, first time anyone has gone outside the spacecraft more than once on a single mission and first time a spacewalker has retrieved an object from another satellite.

Strobel said the Interstate job will be rebid in September. He said a problem developed over a property line on the Platte River.

Union: Morse Slows Solution

Washington (AP)—A plan for a government takeover to end the airlines strike was presented in the Senate Friday. The chief of the striking union promptly declared the proposal worsens chances for early settlement of the 15-day walkout.

"Compulsory arbitration is compulsory servitude," machineists union President P. L. (Roy) Stiemiller said of the proposal by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., for a law to order the strikers back to work while the government directs operation of the airlines. "Sen. Morse has given them (the airlines) a new excuse to delay genuine bargaining," Stiemiller said.

Replying to the comment of chief airline negotiator William J. Curtin that it is "a sad day when . . . an irresponsible union" makes it necessary to consider such legislation, Stiemiller said:

"It is a sad day when corporate management refuses to live up to its responsibilities to share a small portion of its abundant profits with the employees who helped build the industry."

This embittered exchange came while negotiations already were in an all-talk-and-no-action phase while 66,000 strike-idled employees continued to lose $1.6 million a day in wages.

Stiemiller added, "Sen. Morse is wrong again, just as he is wrong in Viet Nam."

Morse cited the war in arguing that the strike is affecting the national security.

His bill would authorize Congress and President Johnson to declare an emergency under which federal courts could order the strikers back to work while government operates the airlines pending future negotiations.

The White House gave no sign of supporting any emergency legislation to break the strike of 35,000 AFL-CIO mechanics.

Bedford, Mass. (AP)—Masked, machine-gun toting bandits, working quickly and with pinpoint timing, held up the crew of a Brink's, Inc., armored truck Friday and escaped with $131,000 in cash and $16,000 in negotiable checks.

The four bandits struck as the three-man crew was delivering the cash and checks to the Mitr Corp., an electronic firm. The cash was to be used for cashing employees' pay checks.

Thomas Horrigan, Brink's assistant manager, said the robbers worked "very quickly . . . the whole operation took only 15 seconds."

Montreal (AP)—Three men with rifles held up three Brink's employees Friday in the West End of Montreal and escaped with a $78,000 payroll.

The gunmen intercepted the Brink's guards as they were delivering a payroll to the Crane Co. of Canada, LTD.

Low Bids On 15 Road Jobs Told

By United Press International

The State Roads Department Friday announced low bids of $2,048,823 on 15 highway improvement projects in 11 counties.

Dobson Brothers Construction Co. of Lincoln submitted a low proposal of $285,621 for grading, paving, culverts and fencing of 0.3 miles of North 10th St. in Lincoln.

Capital Bridge Co. of Lincoln was low at $206,638 for construction of two viaducts on the same project, which was the largest money-wise in the list.

Deputy State Engineer G. C. Strobel said two projects were dropped from the bidding at the last minute. They included 13.3 miles of pre-paving on Interstate 80 between Sutherland and Paxton interchanges, and 3.1 miles of grading on the Scottsbluff South beltline west of Neb. 71.

Strobel said the Interstate job will be rebid in September. He said a problem developed over a property line on the Platte River.

Other projects, giving county, location, miles involved (if any), type of work, low bid and amount of bid.

Officers Say Trio Refused To Leave Site

Omaha (AP)—Municipal Judge Paul Hickman Friday found three persons guilty of resisting the order of policemen in connection with the Fourth of July weekend disturbances on Omaha's Near North Side. The judge fined Gary Lee Fellows, 22, $100 and costs;

Nebraska News

Jackson Lee Anderson, 18, $50 and costs, and Jerry Lewis Foster, 19, $50 and costs.

The judge noted that each had a record and said "It was acts such as yours that kept it going for three days."

Police officers Glenn Berry and Duane Pavel testified and defense attorney Charles Nanfio stipulated to the testimony of four others.

Berry and Pavel said a crowd estimated at more than 50 had gathered about 4 a.m. July 4 in front of a service station. Pavel said he was hit on the arm by a thrown bottle. Claim Way Blocked

The officers said most of the persons dispersed when so ordered, but the three defendants got into their cars, rolled up the windows, locked the doors and refused to leave.

The three said they didn't leave because their way was blocked by police. Berry said he was the only officer in front of the car and he was trying to direct them out of the crowd.

Fellows said they rolled up the windows because they wanted to use the air conditioner.

Air Force Tests Start On Kimball Missile Launch

Kimball (AP)—A missile launch site northwest of Kimball was jolted by a tremendous blast Friday, a part of tests conducted by the Air Force to test the system's resistance to explosive shock. Observers at a one-mile observation point saw a large cloud of dust and felt a tremor. They saw a large steel grid rise from the top of a man-made mound, with fire beneath.

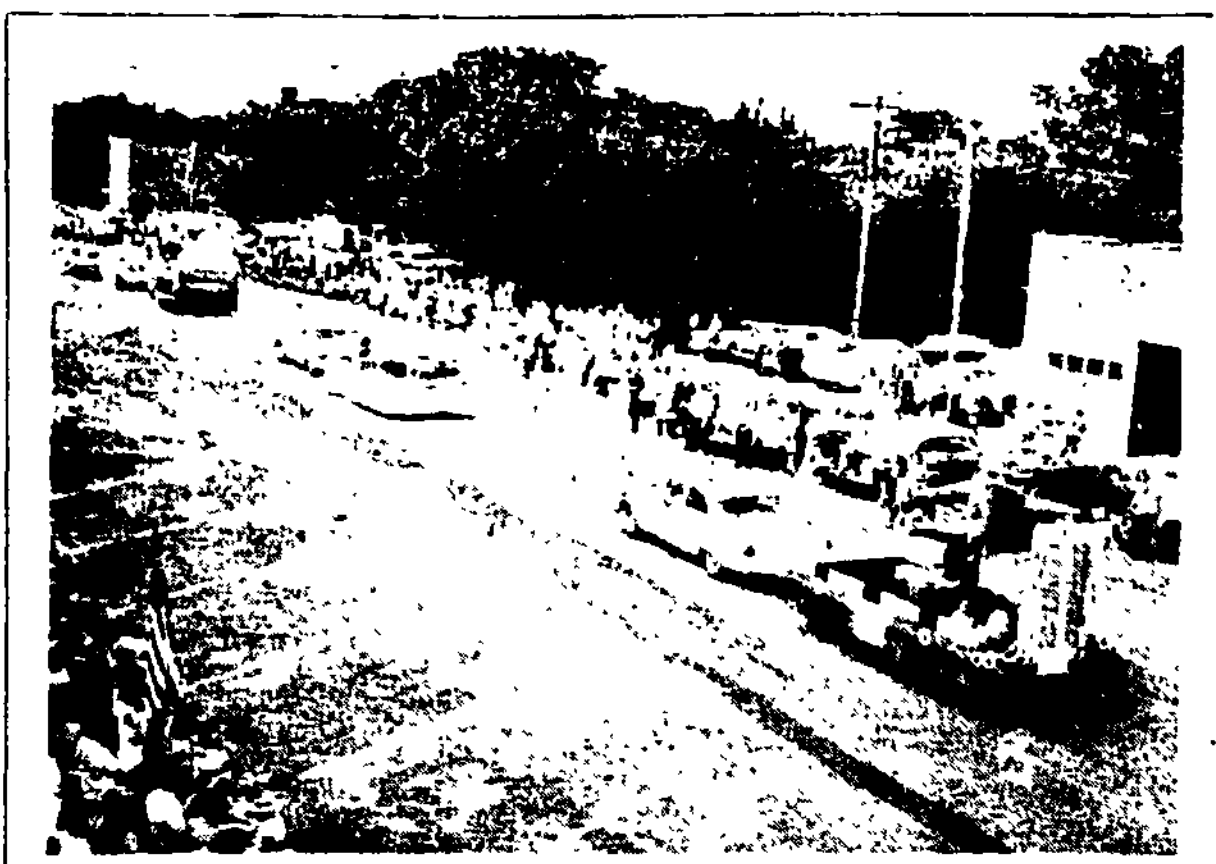

The blast was at a Minuteman launch control facility about 14 miles northwest of Kimball. It followed several months of preparation, and was one of a series in the test program. Conventional explosives were used.

Denney Favors Teacher Income Tax Deductions For Educational Costs

Diller (AP)—Robert Denney said Friday if elected to Congress he will seek enactment of legislation to reverse the Treasury Department decision to disallow teachers the right to deduct educational expenses on their income tax returns.

In remarks at the annual Diller Picnic, the First District Republican candidate said "with the teacher shortage in Nebraska and other states becoming ever more critical, this is not the time to discourage teachers from improving their professional growth."

Denney pointed out that businessmen and some others are permitted to deduct expenses for attendance at conventions and seminars. "A teacher who must re-

120 Units In Annual Diller Parade

Diller's two-block main street and 70th annual picnic teamed up Friday night for a 120-unit parade that's become as traditional as the Friday-Saturday celebration itself. A half dozen bands, half dozen saddle clubs and at least a half dozen political candidates rode in the parade. At least 5,000 persons were estimated present by Mrs. Dora Miller, veteran parade chairman. (Star Staff Photo)

Educational Service Law Challenged

Columbus (AP)—A suit was filed in Platte County District Court Friday challenging the constitutionality of LB301, the Educational Service Unit law, and seeking to prevent formation of a District 7 Unit or levying a tax to support it. District 7, one of 19 such educational service units provided for in the law, embraces Platte, Butler, Greeley, Polk, Nance, Colfax and Boone Counties.

Clarence Goering, a Platte Center farmer, alleged in his petition that LB301 is invalid because it was created by a special law, providing that Class IV and Class V Districts can be exempted from the units if they so desire. He said Lincoln is the only Class

Ex-Hastings Dean To Head College

Augusta, Maine (AP)—A former dean of Hastings College in Nebraska, Dr. Melvin G. Scarlett, was named president of Farmington State College Friday. The board of education said Dr. Scarlett, 45, will begin his duties Sept. 1, replacing Dr. Ermo Scott, who resigned. Dr. Scarlett has been acting president of Mankato State College in Minnesota.

Monaco's U.S. Feast

Monte Carlo, Monaco (AP)—Here are the makings flown from the United States to feed 300 guests of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace at an outdoor lunch: 300 pounds of prime sirloin steak, 450 ears of corn, 100 pounds of shrimp, 300 Idaho potatoes, 150 beef-steak tomatoes, 10 cartons of strawberries. The princely cookout is part of American week festivities of Monaco's summer centennial celebrations.

U.S. Intervention In Viet Nam Declared An American Policy

Grand Island (AP)—The Nebraska American Legion and its auxiliary heard an address by Gov. Frank Morrison at a joint session opening the annual convention Friday. Officers will be elected Sunday morning. About 150 Legionnaires and some 200 auxiliary members registered for the opening session. Morrison told the convention that U.S. intervention in Viet Nam, a policy enunciated by a Republican president now carried out by a Democratic president, is not a partisan but "an American policy."

York Co. Budget Tax Levy Shows Slight Reduction

York (AP)—The proposed budget for York County in the coming year that calls for a slight reduction in tax levy—from six mills to 5.85 mills—has been presented to the County Board. The new levy is expected to raise $295,020.44 by taxation compared with $262,917.24 raised last year. The governor said "the idea now rampant that men have a right to destroy and a right to show disrespect for law is inimical to Democracy."

4 Hold Up Bar; $4,000 Missing

Omaha (AP)—Four men held up the Pork Chop Bar in South Omaha Friday, taking an estimated $4,000. James Zuzulak, son of owner Vince Zuzulak, and an employee, Albert Vanicek, were hit with a pistol during the robbery. Young Zuzulak suffered a cut on his head. Police were reported looking for four Negro men in a late model white car.

Youth Corps Grant Okayed

... For Omaha

Omaha (AP)—Wayne E. Putnam, city housing officer, said Friday Omaha has received preliminary approval for a $216,030 grant to establish a Neighborhood Youth Corps program.

He said final approval is expected in two weeks from the Department of Labor in Washington.

Putnam said the city's share of the program, $37,200, would be provided through "in-kind services" such as supervisory personnel already on the city payroll.

$1.25 An Hour The program is to be administered by the Parks, Recreation and Public Property Department. During the first year, Putnam said, the city would hire 100 youths between the ages of 16 and 21 and from low-income families. They would be paid $1.25 an hour for a 32-hour work week.

Putnam said the city plans to double the program the second year.

He said the city hopes to pay from the federal funds many of the nearly 50 youths hired after the recent Near North Side disturbances.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Education Will Be For Everybody

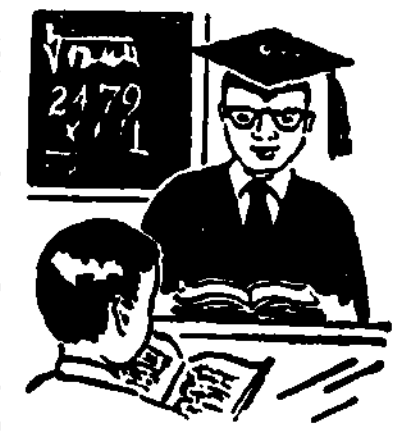

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON By the 1970s education will be for everybody. It's already on the way!

Much of the impetus stems from President Johnson's interest in education. He states, among other things: "Our goal ought to be not just any job for everybody, but a job that uses all every man and woman has to offer. We talk about manpower shortages. They are only a measure of our failure to train people to use more than a part of their talents."

The new educational philosophy is that every child should have the opportunity to develop his skills and talents to the maximum of his ability.

Schools of the 1970s will provide special education for the physically and mentally handicapped, the slow and the rapid learner, the average, the late-bloomer and the precocious child, and will provide an opportunity for the gifted to develop their special talents.

Expanding Effort Project Head Start is an expanding effort to come to grips with the blighting effects of poverty early in the lives of children and help them come closer to reaching their educational potential. This appears to be a success-grams for disadvantaged youths. Of course, getting more students into college is not the only problem which must be solved in the 1970s. There is a large neglected group at the high school level. At present, only 20% of our secondary school students complete college and less than 10% receive special vocational training at that level.

Major Group The major group of students falling in the area between have a difficult time finding their way into the work force. Special education for this group is under study and should be in full bloom in the next decade.

A commission on vocational training at Massachusetts Institute of Technology recommends that all junior and senior high school students receive some training in the vocational field. The commission feels that contact with some real and practical situations will benefit those who go to college as well as the others who do not.

Struggle For Recovery

By MANUEL SANZ

(Note: William O. Dobler, The Star's editor, is on vacation. Today's column is by Manuel Sanz, of United Press International.)

MADRID—Thirty years ago this week, the Spanish civil war broke out. When it ended three years later, it left one million dead and the country destroyed. Today Spain is rushing headlong into economic recovery. Recent liberation laws have revamped the country's political outlook.

But the Spaniard of today is still unsure about his country's future, still shrouded with the curtain of uncertainties that fell 27 years ago at the end of the bloody conflict. With his immediate needs of food and housing satisfied in the economic boom, the Spaniard now has time to ask himself: "After Franco, what?"

Post-Franco Period

As the economy picked up during the last five years, the regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco has become more liberal. Although press freedom still does not meet the standards in most western countries, a recently passed law now permits newspapers to expose national problems with a frankness previously unknown under Franco. In a similar move, legislation is now before the Cortes (parliament) that would grant complete religious liberty in rigidly Roman Catholic Spain. Despite this liberalization program, the uncertainty clings. Spain remains a kingdom without a king.

In 1947 when Spain held its only national referendum, Spaniards overwhelmingly voted for a monarchy, but no monarch was invited to ascend the throne. Lately there have been some concrete talks of holding another referendum. All signs seem to indicate that the form of succession chosen would be the monarchy. But who would occupy the vacant throne? Even the monarchist movement is split.

Don Juan, the pretender to the Spanish throne and the son of the last Spanish king, Alfonso XIII, has been living for years in exile in Estoril, Portugal. He apparently does not feel inclined to give up his claim to the throne. His son, Prince Juan Carlos, married to Princess Sophia of Greece, may be the heir apparent since he has been carefully educated in Spain under the watchful eye of Franco.

As for the 73-year-old Franco, he has maintained a continuous control of the country since the end of the civil war. His government has shown evidence it was not prepared to go too far in granting more freedom when it dealt harshly with students protesting the strict control of their political activities.

Liberal minded priests who rallied to the students' cause also had their knuckles and in some cases their heads rapped by truncheon-wielding policemen.

When the civil war broke out 30 years ago, the common belief was that it would be a short-lived conflict. But it dragged on for three years with a death toll of one million. Countries which aided the opposing sides—the rebels led by Franco and the republicans—later became involved in World War II and had to abandon Spain, leaving it alone to rebuild a destroyed country.

The civil war started with an uprising of the Spanish army in North Africa, led by Francisco Franco Bahamone. Franco was 43 at the time and the youngest general in the army. The rebels reasoned that their cause was to crush the anarchy of the republican regime. The army was solidly behind Franco. The Spanish people generally favored the communist-led republicans. The republicans did not have a basic army and had to recruit soldiers.

From the first moment, the republican government won the support of Russia, while Franco was backed by the axis powers of Germany and Italy who used Spain as a testing ground for World War II. The disintegration of the republican regime soon became apparent as Franco's little army slowly began to conquer cities, towns and villages in long drawn out battles.

Teruel in northeastern Spain was a typical example of the battles. One day it was in the hands of the republicans. The next, in the hands of the rebels. The decisive battle that clinched the victory for the rebels came one cold freezing day at the battle of the Ebro River in 1938. Franco himself was at the head of his troops and the victory opened the gates of Catalonia to him.

The north fell a year later in 1939 when the rebels conquered the fortified city of Bilbao. The seizure of Madrid in 1939 sealed the victory for the rebels. It ended a fratricidal war but left the country a shell of its former self. Republican leaders fled the country. Juan Negrin, the head of the government, went to Russia. Republican President Manuel Azana went to France and other ministers went to Mexico. The majority of them have since died in exile. Franco, who headed the uprising from the beginning, was elected generalissimo of the army and chief of state by a group of military chiefs in Salamanca on Oct. 1, 1936. He has held the titles to this day. When Spain started on the road to recovery, World War II put a swift halt to her progress.

Sen. Dodd Said Busy For Private Client

WASHINGTON — Here is another chapter in the strange case of Senator Tom Dodd. It makes you understand why he doesn't want the Senate Ethics Committee to investigate his finances, and is all the more reason why they should be investigated.

This case involves the fact that the senator from Connecticut reached all the way across the continent to San Francisco Bay to lobby for the construction of a high rise apartment community obstructing the view of the Golden Gate.

Sen. Dodd telephoned, wrote and even flew out to see Gov. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown of California; pulled wires with Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall; and made a dozen or so calls to Interior Department officials, to put across the California building project.

Dodd's excuse was that he was helping builder Thomas Frouge, a Connecticut constituent. What he didn't reveal was that he was Frouge's lawyer.

It is against the law for a member of Congress to accept a fee for a legal case involving the United States government. This is because a senator accepts a salary from the government and is supposed to work exclusively for the government. He cannot divide his loyalty between the government and a building contractor.

Despite this, builder Frouge admitted to us that he had retained Sen. Dodd as his personal attorney "for years."

"I am proud to have a United States senator as my attorney," he said.

He refused to say how much he has paid Dodd, but admitted under questioning that he had financed a trip by the senator to Sacramento in March, 1964, to call upon Gov. Brown.

As an insight into Sen. Dodd's ethics, it should be noted that he also charged the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee for his trip; then turned around and charged the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce for the same trip.

Thus he got paid three ways for the same trip. Actually he devoted less than 30 minutes to juvenile delinquency, discussing it at a joint press conference with Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles. Apparently this was long enough to collect the cost of the trip from the U.S. Senate.

Then Dodd addressed a Junior Chamber of Commerce banquet and collected another $320.78 from it. This was paid by check No. 5059, dated March 26, 1964.

The senator also billed Frouge for his $43.78 side trip to Sacramento; likewise charged Frouge $86.79 for "Beverly Hills hotel expenses," despite the fact he stayed at the Ambassador hotel as a non-paying guest. He also billed Frouge $45 for "San Francisco hotel expenses."

LBJ Is More GOP Than Demos Like

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has changed his constituency in Congress. He knows it. Congress knows it. Each has his reasons for pretending the change does not exist.

It has come about because the President is escalating the war in Asia, and this is agreeable to the Republicans' historical position on China and reinforces their argument that the Roosevelt-Truman-Kennedy administration overemphasized Europe.

In short, Johnson is rehabilitating the party tagged in the '30s and '40s with isolation and appeasement in foreign policy. His name for it of course, "consensus," but he calls his Democratic critics appeasers who want another Munich.

The result is that the presumed opposition party is not opposing. It has been presented with a political gift of great magnitude and knows its worth. Besides, it is getting its own way on Asia.

True, Republicans are having to pay a price for all this euphoria, but it is one which is well within their means at the moment. They had realized during the Eisenhower years that the New Deal was here to stay when their own President modestly advanced it.

The additions of the Great Society cause them some pangs, but most of it was overdue and started with relatively modest appropriations. Now the war has denied Johnson any expansion worth mentioning.

and the new billions the war is costing insure that all appropriations in the public sector will be held down.

Today the President is closer by far to Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, who likes his Viet Nam moves, than to Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who doubts their wisdom. Mansfield is a foreign affairs scholar, widely traveled. Dirksen is famous as a political strategist.

Today Republicans who fought foreign aid vote for it. Democratic liberals, many of them veterans of the Roosevelt-Truman struggles with the issue, hold back. The change is evident in the House, particularly in the House Armed Services Committee.

Today Republicans seldom remind the President that he attacked their 1964 candidate, Barry Goldwater, for his Viet Nam militance. Johnson's soft-spoken emphasis on peace lies in that limbo of "just campaign oratory," a phrase of Wendell Wilkie's after his own 1940 presidential bid.

Wilkie caught hell for using the phrase. The present silence may mean something in the context of political morality today.

Democrats see very clearly what has been done to them. They cannot really believe amid their present success that they are as yet in danger as a party, and they are uneasy to act. But they eye their Republican counterparts with a certain envy as the midterm election campaign opens.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

If you really push it—and change drivers every 200 miles or so—you can make it from Lincoln to Lake Tahoe in 25 hours.

And just a few hours from there, America's most beautiful city lies sparkling by the bay. But, first, Lake Tahoe.

Tahoe mixes spectacular scenic beauty and a brilliant sky with glittering, garish night life lured, sustained and enriched by the gambler's dollar.

By day, the big bright blue lake—which spills into California and Nevada—gleams in the shiny sunlight. Looking down on it is a massive range of mountains. Tiny sailboats, dwarfed by the majestic mountain range and spreading waters, fleck the blue with dots of white.

Nearby Squaw Valley lies waiting for the winter snows—and the skiers to come. Now it is quiet, and you can ride the lift to the top of the peaks for a cup of coffee and a look at the world below.

By night, Tahoe's neon blinks alive and the huge high-rise ornamental palaces which house the casinos on the Nevada side of the lake are quickly crowded with people and money and music. Only the people leave.

Slot addicts stand for hours and play the machines two at a time. Roulette, black jack, craps and keno tables are surrounded by players—and drinks are on the house for the gamblers.

Free entertainment is on stage all day and all night in the gambling area, and the nation's top entertainers are available for five bucks a head (and that includes four drinks) in the club room.

At the Sahara Tahoe last week, Henry Mancini, his string-accented orchestra and soaring arrangements, his chop stroke direction and wry humor busted all Nevada entertainment records (40,000 customers in 21 days) with help from the second-billed New Christy Minstrels. Across the street, Lawrence Welk's music bubbled and burped at Harrah's.

And so, on to that city by the bay.

Through Sacramento, where the Capitol is nestled at the end of a spreading, tree-shaded mall and (state senators take note) members of the Legislature and the press corps are provided with separate office quarters, where Pat Brown holds a shaky Statehouse mortgage, where the vast problems of the nation's largest, bursting, bustling state pile up.

Through Berkeley, the liberal campus, the pacesetter which shocks some, prosds others and intrigues most everyone, a shady, cool, tree-lined campus scissored by Little Strawberry Creek, where "convention" is an unknown word and every possible cause and case in the world is promoted and tried on the campus square.

Last week posters were circulated inviting you to picket the Mexican Tourist Bureau for some obscure reason and the Oakland Induction Center for less than obscure reasons.

One startlingly attractive girl sat alone at a table handing out literature promoting legislation to legalize abortion. Among the buttons being peddled on campus, the most imaginative simply proclaimed "Belly."

Beardies go unnoticed at Berkeley, and where else would a police patrol be formed to police the police? Some U-C students now trail the city cops to guard against alleged police harassment.

Okay, on to the city, that exciting, captivating, compelling, cosmopolitan, pastel-clad city of hills and bridges and wharfs and cable cars, seasoned with Oriental flavor, splashed by the sea, shrouded in the evening by the creeping ocean fog, bathed by day in the bright sunlight of mid-July.

San Francisco.

Where Chinatown beckons you to wander up Grant Avenue into another world. Where the sprawling busy wharf overflows with the colorful bounty of the sea. Where the clubs on the North Beach swing all night—and a topless amateur show wiggles and giggles to SRO crowds. Where, atop Nob Hill from the Top of the Mark or across the street from the Crown Room of the Fairmont, you can watch the evening lights wink on across the city.

San Francisco.

Across the towering Golden Gate bridge in saucy Sausalito, you can see it all from a bayside bar or restaurant, shimmering in the darkness.

Or on top of Mt. Tamalpais farther north into Marin County, you can view the entire bay area in mid-afternoon, a picture postcard-patterned panorama, held together by the three bridges.

Cool, crisp, invigorating San Francisco, where suits feel comfortable once again and where the newspapers remind you with Page 1 taunts what the weather is like in the Midlands in July.

A progressive, free, open-minded, uninhibited city, where the Chamber of Commerce (of all organizations) felt compelled last week to call for a total end to any segregation which continues to exist in city schools.

A city of infinite beauty and variety, unmatched—we think—by any other.

So, chalk up the second visit to San Francisco. And wait, impatiently, for the next.

A Glimpse Of Our Utopian Future

NEW YORK — The day is coming when:

A housewife will dial her dinner menu, and an electronic oven will cook it in two minutes.

Kitchen taps will release whichever of a variety of drinks (martini? milk?) the drinker selects on the household's master selector.

Canopies over beds will keep people cool in summer, warm in winter.

Houses will be totally self-cleaning.

TV and radio will be powered by such tiny organs that TV sets can be worn like wristwatches, and radios poked in the ear like earrings.

Nobody will look old. Or FEEL old.

Will it be paradise, then, for the modern American woman?

Hardly. She'll still have to worry about the kids—did they cut the radar switch on the aero-car and crack up? And she'll continue to wonder if her husband is faithful. After all, now that he can catch a missile and be in Puerto Rico for a lunch date—anything can happen.

Now, all this may seem like some idiot dream of the far-far-off future. But I have researched this moot paradise in some detail, talking to experts, and these technological advances should be with us by the year 2,000. Or before. In fact, many of the inventions aforementioned could be in our homes this year, except for the fact that we are not willing yet to pay the price for them.

Here are some of the predictions . . .

"Any day now," says Myra Waldo, cooking expert, "we will have the 'freezertherm'—a combination freezer-infrared cooker. At the press of a button, it will send packaged foods from the freezer portion into the infrared unit, where wrappings will be removed automatically, dinner cooked in less than a minute and presented on a plate which will then slide onto the dining table."

"The cars we will drive in the future," anticipated George Gibson, a director of product-planning engineering for a big auto company, "will be operated by button signal. You'll press the button inside your home or office and the electronic car will back out of its storage place to your door. Then you'll climb in, dial your destination and that's it. No need to steer because, like other forms of transportation, cars will be kept clear of other vehicles by radar. In case of serious traffic jams, or when going a long distance, the car can take off like a plane and fly low."

No need to buy gas. "Cars will be powered by solar cell, of course."

And, of course, between solar and atomic energies, all cars as well as homes and offices will be adjustable to an ideal and purified climate. If you're claustrophobic, or like fresh air, merely flick a switch and your home will be flooded with sunshine and artificial but realistic sea breezes.

Not that anyone will need sea breezes and sunshine. According to a prominent New York doctor, health will abound by the year 2000.

"More medicines of a hormonal nature will keep us physically strong and virtually inexhaustible," he said. "Cancer should be conquered, and there will be other discoveries to cut dramatically the incidences of heart disease."

"And there will be so many medications to make us happy, I only hope we aren't all turned into contented automatons."

Madame Helena Rubinstein told me that within the next four decades, "you'll change the color of your hair by taking a pill. And a by-product of cancer research—the secret of cell division will control the aging process of skin cells, so that women look forever young." Unfortunately, a madame couldn't live to see this miracle (which would have destroyed her cosmetics business) come true.

But perhaps we will. So hold on. By the year 2000, you can push a button and get instant bliss . . .

You should live so long.

You really should.

Lincoln, Neb. A front-page article 10 days ago related the troubles of Job Corps officials in finding suitable housing. Only now do we learn that the article referred to Negroes.

This simplifies the problem. Without doubt, many of the Lincoln merchants standing to profit from the generous Job Corps salaries own income property. I suggest they be contacted about renting to these profitable customers.

The Bill Is Being Rendered

Americans have done wonders with this land of ours. They have built a great society of 200 million, they have established the greatest industrial complex in history and they have become the West's leading power. They lead in many things.

But they haven't kept things very clean. They have destroyed forests, fouled the water, smogged up the air and eroded the soil.

Now the bill is coming in. We are beginning to pay the price for being poor housekeepers.

Two examples:

The U.S. Senate recently approved by an 80 to 0 vote a measure calling for cleaning up our air.

It has also passed by 90 to 0 an anti-water pollution measure.

Both measures await the pleasure of the House, but difficulty is not anticipated there.

The purification of water resources alone was set up with an appropriation of $6.2 billion to finance a six year program. It also sets up stiff penalties for dumping waste oil in rivers or coastal water. And the $6.2 billion is expected to generate an outlay of something like $20 billion, coming from supplemental appropriations from states and local governments and from industry.

There is no estimate yet as to the future cost to bring blue sky back to the numerous smog-bound American cities.

Lord Bryce Was Right

According to Columnist Doris Fleeson, Mayor Lindsay of New York City has established a governmental cell at Washington, near to the White House.

The purpose is obvious. New York City needs more than it can pay for itself, and has other problems that need federal help. The Washington office is a significant first step in the direction of cities looking more earnestly at federal help than in state help at their own capitals.

Some of the problems of American cities come from unbridled growth—the packing of too many people into too small a space. This explains the slum problem, the crime, and the general great costliness of city administrations too far removed from the citizens.

But there is another cause too. It was pointed out at the turn of the century by Lord Bryce, of Great Britain, who made

Editorial Of The Day

Good, Fast Police Work

From The Des Moines Register A little luck and a great deal of skillful police work figured in the arrest of Richard Speck, the prime suspect in the horrifying murder of eight Chicago nurses. Fingerprints and the prompt gathering of leads put police on Speck's trail well before he was recognized on being brought into a Chicago hospital for treatment of wounds.

Chicago police also used good judgment in avoiding the natural tendency to rush to grill Speck about the case. The Supreme Court has made clear that statements obtained from a suspect without adequate warning of his rights to remain silent and to have a court-appointed lawyer present at interrogation will result in the statements being inadmissible at trial.

The Chicago police's interrogation of Danny Escobedo in 1960 without telling him of his rights or letting him see his lawyer led the high court to overturn his conviction four years later and to lay down the strict new rules on interrogation. The rules have resulted in an outcry that police will be handicapped in solving crime. The Supreme Court counters that the limits placed on interrogation "should not constitute an undue interference with a proper system of law enforcement" and that a system of law enforcement "which comes to depend on the 'confession' will, in the long run, be less reliable and more subject to abuses than a system which depends on extrinsic evidence independently secured through skillful investigation."

The Chicago case illustrates what the Supreme Court has in mind. The evidence gathered by skillful police work in this case is not subject to charges that it was coerced. It is reliable, objective evidence that will stand up in court. The need to abide by the Supreme Court's rulings on interrogation has not proved an obstacle in the case.

High Court Rules In Favor Of Merritt Beach Operators

By Associated Press

The State Supreme Court Friday ruled in favor of the operators of Merritt Beach in Cass County south of Omaha in a dispute with the State Department of Roads over uses to which land adjoining U.S. Highway 73-75 is being put.

The high court ruling reversed the judgment of the Cass County District Court, which had found for the Highway Department.

The state of Nebraska in 1934 granted an easement to the Merritt Brothers S and and Gravel Co. on 8.61 acres of highway right-of-way not being used as a roadway.

The Highway Department contends Merritt Beach operators have encroached on and wrongfully used the land by the picnicking, fishing, vehicular traffic, weed mowing, trash removal and light pole maintenance which have occurred on the land. The Highway Department also contended it was entitled to survey the area and erect a boundary fence.

The Supreme Court said the proposed fence would serve no purpose.

It said that if a survey to determine corners or boundaries was desired, Cass County should have been made a party.

And the high court said the occasional picnicking and fishing are an incidental result of the commercial resort enterprise.

The defendants "have not commercially exploited their easement," the court said. "On the contrary they have taken reasonable steps to discourage the activities complained of by plaintiff."

The Supreme Court ordered dismissal of the Highway Department's petition.

In other rulings Friday the court:

—affirmed the Douglas County District Court's ruling in favor of the state and set aside an order that convicted 20 years ago of Robert L. Loebe.

The conviction and three-year sentence, long since served, was used as the basis for a later habitual criminal conviction and Loebe sought to have the 1960 conviction set aside in order to reduce a sentence previously being served in the Nebraska Penal Complex under a habitual criminal conviction. The relief was sought under Nebraska's 1960 post conviction law.

The high court said that Loebe was represented by counsel when he entered a guilty plea to the state theft charge.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Widow, 66, Wouldn't Remarry For $100,000

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. "Stop worrying about widows who can't find a man. I wouldn't remarry for $100,000. After 40 years living with an insensitive beast, widowhood is the most satisfying experience of my life. At 66, I savor every minute living alone with a cat that really loves me and a dog who never gives me any back talk. Remarry? Don't be silly."

A. Don't condemn remarriage just because you tangled with a tiger the first time around. Most husbands are remarkably gentle if they're treated properly, and most widows have very pleasant memories of married life. It's well that you're satisfied as you are, for there are four times as many women as men past 60, and it's only right that these rare males specimens be spared for those who really want and need them.

Q. "You have your nerve saying older people have no excuse for looking shabby. I'm trying to live on Social Security, and haven't a dime left over at the end of the month. I probably look a mess but what can you do on $98 a month? Just try it and see."

A. It may be more difficult to make a good appearance on a limited budget. But it can be done. Half the battle is in keeping one's person clean. Shirts and suits can be old, but if they're clean and pressed they look neat. Then with hair that is combed and cut, and shoes that have a touch of shine, nearly anyone can look respectable.

Q. "Do you think it's harmful to take up smoking at 65? I never touched cigarettes until I retired, but now I'm smoking a pack a day."

A. Many studies suggest that excessive smoking over a period of years can lead to lung cancer. But if my sons promised not to take up smoking until after 65, I wouldn't be too worried about them."

Q. "I've heard that some cities pay folks to provide board and room to aged citizens. My children are grown and married and I live alone in a four-bedroom house. I'd like to take in some older people and supplement my income. Where can I inquire about this?"

A. Ask your local welfare department if it sponsors a foster home program for aged relief recipients. Many cities latched on to this plan because it not only saves the city money—since it costs less to shelter older people in homes than keep them in city institutions—but it also makes life more pleasant for older people themselves. The plan also provides a dependable source of income for responsible homeowners who enjoy caring for older folks.

Q. "When we retired three years ago we fulfilled a lifetime dream of moving to Florida where we bought a two-bedroom ranch house complete with half a dozen orange trees in the backyard. But we don't seem to have any friends, don't go out much, and aren't having much fun. What are we doing wrong?"

A. You're probably staying too close to home. If you expect to make friends you've got to get out so people can see you and get acquainted. Most people are basically friendly, but won't go out of their way to cultivate strangers. Become active in church and community projects. Cultivate people with whom you find you have something in common, such as a similar home state, a mutual friend, or an interest in antiques. Rub elbows with someone every day. If you do this friendly relations are sure to follow.

Meet Star Carrier James Kirby III

James Kirby III has just completed his first month as a carrier salesman for the Lincoln Star but he already has the reputation of being an excellent paperboy.

The 13-year-old Lincolnite says he has derived many benefits from his route and cites the opportunity to meet new people and earning his own money as some of them. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Kirby Jr., have also detected an increased adaptability to a variety of situations and an awareness of sound business practices in their son.

Besides his job—James has a wide variety of interests and his work at Sacred Heart School to keep him busy. He likes sports and is on the track and basketball teams at school.

His hobbies include model cars, stamps, art and chemistry. And he hopes to develop one of the latter two into a lifetime career.

Parties Honor Sandra Lichtenberg

One of the early autumn brides-elect is Miss Sandra Lichtenberg who has a September date for her marriage to Calvin Robinson, and whose courtesy calendar is growing longer each day.

The current flurry of parties for Miss Lichtenberg begins today. The affair is a luncheon for which Mrs. John Hoerner and Mrs. Lawrence Reger will be hostesses at the home of Mrs. Hoerner. Twelve guests have been invited for the luncheon, an afternoon of bridge—and a recipe show—for the bride-elect.

Complimenting Miss Lichtenberg next Wednesday will be Mrs. Howard Linch who has invited 20 guests for an evening party at her home. The soon-to-be bride will be presented with a linen shower.

Then, on next Saturday evening—July 30, Miss Lichtenberg and her fiancé will share honors at a dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. George Holyoke, Mr. and Mrs. John Dudgeon and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hall will be hosts and hostesses at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Holyoke. A small group of guests has been invited.

And now to catch up on some of the recent parties for Miss Lichtenberg.

On Tuesday evening, July 12, the bride-to-be was the honoree at a party for which Mrs. Lionel A. Brown was hostess when she entertained at her home. The 17 guests, all office associates of the bride-elect, presented her with a kitchen and recipe shower.

And last Saturday Mrs. Ernest Dewey and her daughters, Mrs. James Kerr of San Antonio, Tex., and Mrs. Donald Heiliger of Omaha, paid prenuptial courtesy to Miss Lichtenberg, at the home of Mrs. Dewey when they entertained at luncheon. During the informal afternoon the honoree was presented with a miscellaneous shower.

What They're Reading

Two very different kinds of novels have appeared recently on the top-selling fiction charts. They are Roderick Thorp's "The Detective" and Frances Parkinson Keyes' "I, The King."

The advance publicity for "The Detective" was bold, splashy, suggestive, arresting—in short, the same that accompanies almost every new novel. It is, we are told, "a huge, brilliant novel about a man who is a private detective—involved in a case so extraordinary and complex that he must discover not only who are the murderers, but who are the victims as well." The characters are today's favorites: the detective, a psychiatrist, a nymphomaniac, a deviate, a woman in love.

With these tried-and-true ingredients, how could "The Detective" miss?

Frances Parkinson Keyes has a much more sensible and equally entertaining recollection of this Spanish monarch. It is "I, The King." As if Mrs. Keyes' well-written fictionalized biography did not paint a complete enough picture of the king, one edition offers a reproductions of Velazquez portraits of Philip, his consorts, and his surroundings.

The personality of Philip IV, King of Spain, is well-summarized in the title. Whereas most monarchs speak of themselves in the plural "we," Philip was, to himself and others, always "I, The King."

According to the book critics, the current best-sellers are:

Opening lead—six of clubs. They say that, comes the revolution, all suits will break reasonably and all finesses will succeed, but until then we'd better watch our P's and Q's and stay prepared to fight foul distribution.

Let's suppose you're in six spades and West leads a club. Certainly the contract looks easy enough to make, but when you win the club with the ace and play a spade to the ace, West shows out and you learn that East has two apparently certain trump tricks.

If you take the right approach in situations like this, you start to think in terms of whether the slam can still be made, instead of concentrating on how unlucky you are to run into five trumps in one hand.

You say to yourself that if the rest of East's hand is favorably distributed, you can end-play him in trumps and make the hand, but you know that this will require a considerable amount of luck—and thus far you haven't had even a small share of that commodity.

HER betrothal is revealed

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Killeen make announcement this morning of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kathryn, to Patrick Breitfelder, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Breitfelder.

The wedding will take place in November.

Marriage Announced

Announcement is made of the marriage of Sharon K. Biggs, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Thompson of Lincoln, and James E. Biggs of Crete, to Fred J. Kirk, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kirk. The ceremony took place on Wednesday evening, July 20, at the American Lutheran Church where the Rev. Wayne Bunn solemnized the 7 o'clock service in the presence of only the members of the immediate families.

Following the ceremony a reception for the wedding guests was held at the home of the bride's mother.

After a honeymoon trip Mr. Kirk and his bride will reside in Lincoln.

NEWS

of suburban areas

ABBY

a letter from dad

Abigail Van Buren

Have an urge to see America first? Itching to find out how long-lost great-aunt Matilda is getting along? Or could the house use a fresh coat of paint? Well, summertime is THE time — the time to travel, the time to get cool in the pool, the time to move into that lovely new home — and suburban residents are taking full advantage of the diverse activities open to them.

MEADOW LANE

Mrs. Helen Bishop decided that summertime is moving-time, so she is packing her bags and boxes, and will take up residence in North Platte.

For Deborah Bishop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Bishop, July brought an opportunity for a vacation.

She left yesterday with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Corskary, now of Millard but formerly of Lincoln. They will spend two weeks in Lubbock, Tex., as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Corskary's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Packard.

Since both Mr. and Mrs. Packard resided in Lincoln before their marriage, their home in Lubbock may seem more like a "little Nebraska!" than part of Texas for the next two weeks.

THE KNOLLS

Summer brought the perfect opportunity, so Mrs. Charles Sharrick decided that several years of separation from her brothers and sisters ought to end.

The result is a weekend of reunion-ing at Mrs. Sharrick's home, and tonight will be highlighted with a smorgasbord dinner, and a houseful of guests from all over the country.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Hall have come from Alameda, Calif., for the gathering, and they were joined by relatives from the same direction — Mr. and Mrs. Les C. Jones of Las Vegas, Nev. Four Kansas City, Kan., families have arrived for the affair, including Mr. and Mrs. George S. Jones, Mrs. J. L. Blair, L. A. Decker, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones.

New Orleans is the home base of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Jones, and coming from San Antonio, Tex., were Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Jones, whose son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Dunning, arrived in Lincoln from Minneapolis, Minn.

EASTRIDGE

Taking a two-week respite from the heat of La Brea, Calif. to come to the heat of Lincoln, were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Gerlach and their children, Lisa, Kurt, Heidi, and Nanette.

They were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gerlach, and during their stay in town also visited Mrs. Franklin Knudson.

Horseback riding, swimming, hiking, wow! And five whole summer weeks to do it in!

That is probably a rough idea of the thoughts of Cindy Mapes, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Jerry Mapes, when she left for Camp Lake Hubert, Minn. Accompanying her was cousin Carol Mapes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mapes who, no doubt, was equally excited at the prospect of five fun weeks.

Summertime is a busy time for Miss Merla Cook, judging from her travel calendar. She arrived last Saturday from Colorado Springs, Colo., where she has been teaching, to visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn J. Cook, for two weeks.

After leaving Lincoln, she will make a trip to New York, and then go to El Paso, Tex., to attend a wedding.

DEAR ABBY. This is to tell you about a letter you never received. Some time ago I received a call from my son's third grade teacher asking me to stop in at school to discuss a letter my son had written in letter-writing class. It was addressed to YOU. It read:

"Dear Abby. My dad works all the time. He is never home. He gives me money and lots of toys, but I hardly ever see him. I love him and wish he did not work all the time so I could see him more. (signed) Danny"

That was the entire letter. Abby, I grew up during the depression and wanted my children to have it better than I did, so I worked one full time job and two part time jobs, which almost doubled my income. I managed to provide my wife and two sons with many luxuries, but realized a father reading Danny's letter that I had deprived them of something more important than material things. Myself. And my time. I took stock of myself and was ashamed of what I discovered.

For instance, I had never attended a report card conference, nor visited school. Took no part in scouting, although both sons were Cub Scouts. I had never reprimanded my sons. This responsibility was entirely their mother's. Sometimes days would pass without seeing the boys awake. Because of the standards I had set for my family, I felt I couldn't lower those standards without first discussing it with them, so we held a family meeting. The result: I quit both part time jobs and we adjusted our standard of living accordingly.

That was nearly two years ago and now I have discovered what a wonderful family I have. I have earned the respect of my sons. But but more important, I have learned that the greatest gift a man can give his children is himself, his time and his love. Today I am a happy man, and I want to thank you, Abby, because if it were not for the letter my son wrote to you, I might never have known what I was missing. (sign me) DAD

FORMER coed is a bride-elect

This morning Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harold O. Hoppe of Annandale, Va., make announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Karen Elaine, to David Mason Crook, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Eugene M. Crook of Paris, France.

A September wedding is planned and the ceremony will be solemnized at the St. James Methodist Church in Bellevue where both families formerly resided.

Miss Hoppe is a former student at the University of Nebraska.

Mr. Crook also attended the University of Nebraska, and following their wedding he and his bride will reside in Lincoln.

Attendants Named

Announcing the members of the bridal party for her wedding on Aug. 13, is Miss Jill Smith of Shelton whose marriage to Richard Stueber of Lincoln will take place at the First Methodist Church in Shelton.

Miss Sandra Bernhard will be her cousin's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Pamela Smith of Scotia; Miss Susan Bernhard and Miss Kay Stueber of Lincoln, Scott Smith, brother of the bride-elect, will be the ringbearer.

Kim Woodward of Lincoln will serve Mr. Stueber as best man, and seating the guests will be Arthur Stueber, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, Tim Aron, both of Lincoln, and Jacques Smith, II.

Lighting the candles for the 7 o'clock ceremony will be Miss Johnna Lynn Brooks, and Brad Packett of Fairfield, Iowa.

Both Miss Smith and Mr. Stueber have been students at Kearney State College, and Mr. Stueber has attended the University of Nebraska.

EARLY September bride-elect

Of interest to town and University of Nebraska faculty circles this morning is the announcement made by Dr. and Mrs. Duane E. Loewenstein of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Dearwyn Elaine, to Dennis P. Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Hudson.

The wedding is planned for Sept. 9, and the ceremony will be solemnized at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at the Christ Methodist Church.

Both Miss Loewenstein and her fiance will be students at the University of Nebraska this year.

SAM SNEAD RETAINS PGA LEAD

...Slammin' Sammy Fights Off Aching Back For Second-Round 71

Akron, Ohio (AP) — Ageless Sam Snead and his aching back refused to give ground Friday and the phenomenal 54-year-old hillbilly with the rhythmic swing slammed into a one-stroke lead after 36 holes in the Professional Golfers Association championship.

Fighting back from two early bogeys and a threat of collapse, the slugger from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., carved out a steady one-over-par 71 to go with his opening 68 for 139.

He became the only man in the field of 165 of the world's blue ribbon professionals under par for two trips around the 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club course, called by South Africa's Gary Player "the toughest in the world." Par is 35-35-70.

One stroke back at 140 were Al Geiberger, the human two-iron from Carlton Oaks, Calif., and Don January, the 36-year-old tour veteran from Dallas, Tex. They were followed by Julius Boros, two-time National Open winner, who fired a second round 72 for 141.

Geiberger, tied with Snead for the first round lead, almost blew it. He took a double bogey on the third and successive bogeys at the fifth and sixth, but rallied with three birdies on the incoming nine for a 72.

January, playing steadily, came to the 17th needing only par on the final two holes to tie, but he missed the green and took a costly bogey 5 for a 71.

The seams burst for such pre-tournament favorites as Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Bill Casper, defending champion Dave Marr and Bobby Nichols.

Nicklaus, the Masters and British Open king, three-putted three greens and fought a running battle with trees and traps in posting a 71 for 146.

Friday's PGA Tourney Results, Page 10

Palmer, the 4-1 advance favorite who wants a PGA crown so badly he can taste it, could do nothing right. He hooked his drives repeatedly into the woods, once sent a simple chip completely over a green, left another in the rough and stumbled home with a 73 for 148—nine strokes out of first place.

Casper, who beat Palmer in a playoff for the National Open last month in San Francisco, managed to pluck only one birdie—a 20-foot putt on the 625-yard 16th—and shot a second straight 73, also for 146.

Nichols, the former PGA champion who won the Minnesota Open last week, failed to make the cut with 81-78—159 but refused to blame it on his weird branding iron putter.

After Casper, one of the late finishers in a long and tiresome day, had finished his round, he was asked if he thought he was in contention.

"What's the lead?" Casper asked.

"Snead has 139," someone replied.

"That's just seven strokes," Casper replied. "It took me only nine holes in the Open to wipe out that kind of lead. No, we have a long way yet to go in this tournament."

Among those still within shooting range of Snead's balding scalp were Doug Sanders, the year's leading money winner; young Billy Farrell, son of a famous pro; Jacky Cupit, of the Texas Cupit brothers and Player, tied at 143.

Player, missing six putts of eight feet and under, matched the day's best effort with an even par 70 and said:

"It was one of the best rounds I've ever played. This course is the world's toughest. It's tougher than St. Andrews and Muirfield in Scotland, or any other."

Farrell also shot a 70—no one broke par—while Sanders, with a double bogey 7 at the 16th where he hit his third into the water, skied to a 74. Cupit added a 73 to a first round 70.

Dow Finsterwald, the first PGA champion under the new medal play format, also had a 70 for 144. He was followed by former Open Champion Jack Fleck, Frank Beard and Ed Griffiths, tied at 145.

Palmer agreed with Player that the Firestone course was one of the toughest, principally because of the playing conditions.

"The greens are like glass," he said. "They have been burned by the hot weather. I don't know what you can do about it. If you put too much water on them, you may lose them anyhow."

Former Open champion Ed Furgol said the greens ought to be transferred to Highway 80.

"They'd make it a better highway," he grumbled.

Snead had no complaints.

As he turned into the stretch of final three holes, he told a friend, "If I could get one more birdie, I'd be in good shape—I might go all the way."

He got the bird at the 16th with a booming drive, a two-iron shot and a wedge to within nine feet.

He started shakily with bogeys on the third and seventh holes, but he hit a magnificent approach to within four feet at the eighth. He had his most trouble on the par 3 holes. He bogeyed two from traps and had to come out of a bunker for his par on a third.

Astleford Opens Up Five-Stroke Lead

By HAL BROWN

Hastings — Bob Astleford found himself in a strange role at the end of 36 holes Thursday afternoon here in the Nebraska state men's Amateur Golf Tournament—he was leading at that point, something he hasn't done since Alliance in 1963.

Astleford, accustomed to staging rallies over the final 36 holes, will take a five stroke lead into the final 36 holes today at the Lockland Country Club.

His nearest challenger, both five strokes back, are Don Bridge of Norfolk and Dick Spangler Jr. of Lincoln.

Astleford, who has won four straight championships starting at Omaha Highland Country Club in 1962 and following with victories at Alliance in 1963, Beatrice in 1964, and the Lincoln Country Club in 1965, shot a one-under-par 71 Friday to go with his 70 of Thursday for the big lead at the end of 36 holes.

Scott Brunzell of Lincoln fell six shots off the lead with a 76 Friday after trailing by only one Thursday and the Lincoln Southeast senior rests in fourth place at 147.

with Bob Mittra of Omaha.

Another stroke back is Dave Franklin of Fremont and John Ziegenbein of Columbus.

Lincoln's Matt Taber, who led Astleford by seven strokes with 18 holes to play in last year's tourney at the Lincoln to trail by 15 strokes.

Country Club, shot 81 Friday

Two other Lincolniters, who were expected to be strong contenders, faded away from the leader with Charlie Borner shooting 74 for a 149 total and Larry Romjue taking a 79 for a 153 score at the 36 hole mark.

Astleford, a 36-year-old

Omahan, who had the only sub-par round over the long

Friday's Results, Page 10

Lockland course Friday, figured he had played as well

Friday as he did during Thursday's round when his 70 was also the best of the day.

"I hit the ball good today (Friday)," Astleford observed.

"But I still haven't got the feel of the greens here."

Astleford three-putted the 200-yard eighth for his first bogey of the round which also was his first three-putt green in the tournament and only his fourth three-putt green in the last five tournaments.

"The greens today were marked badly by spike marks," he explained. "And the pin placements were on knolls where you could not charge the cup."

Favorites In Style At Lincoln Races

By JOHN HINES

Star Sports Writer

Betting on the "sure thing" was the order of the day at the 12th session of State Fairgrounds horse racing Friday as the favorite or co-favorite in six of the eight races came through.

Jockey Mervin Kruger piloted three winners and leading rider Don Stauffer two, and Wind Tone and Phil's Stevie paid off $150 even in the daily double. Phil's Stevie in the second and Bernolee in the eighth were the only dark-horse winners, although Bernolee was almost favored.

Three consecutive races, the fourth through sixth, ended in photo finishes but anxious backers of the top betting choices had no worries. The favored horses coming through, in each instance, proving that an inch is as good as a mile.

In the daily double races, Phil's Stevie was a surprise 15-1 longshot winner by 2 1/4 lengths to pay $33.40. Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Raasch's Norfolk-owned black gelding was rated seventh of the 10 horses in the field for the six furlongs, and entered the fifth post position with only two victories in his previous 26 starts.

Gin Broker took the lead in the backstretch before Phil's Stevie moved with a rush at the far turn and blasted down the stretch to victory. Favorite Periphery, the early leader, came in fourth.

Wind Tone and Little Jetson raced as one horse through most of the backstretch before Wind Tone edged ahead of Blue Honors by a length at the finish. Blue Honors was three lengths back in third place entering the stretch.

Dan A., at 3-1 behind Dakota Jim, Bernolee put on a top effort in the stretch to beat Mr. Kem by a length, with Dakota Jim just a neck back in third.

The sixth, in which Lotta Quest eked out a neck's victory in a four-way dogfight, and the seventh race with Shoe Laces drawing off in the final sixteenth to win by 3 1/2 lengths over Toro Flyer, were the co-features of the cool day on a fast track. Kruger won both and also rode Doc's Folly to first place in the fourth race.

A rousing stretch finish in the sixth found Lotta Quest winning over Mr. Light, who was a half-length ahead of third-place Rose Bug, who was only a head in front of fourth-place East Echo. Rose Bug had a lead of a length and a half entering the stretch. Lotta Quest has now won two in a row.

In the other tight squeezes, Doc's Folly moved along the outside on the far turn in the fourth race and came from fourth place, 3 1/2 lengths behind pacesetter Little Gap, to shade the latter steed by a nose at the wire. Doc's Folly's winning time was a creditable 1:41.2.

The fifth race had two groups separated by a length and a quarter. Quarter Tommy won by a nose over Disdainful Miss in the first pack, while Red Buster took show money by the same difference over Star Fleet Fuzz and California Time in a three-way tangle for third.

Rep. Clair Callan said Friday that he supports the proposal to construct a high-voltage electric transmission line from the Dakotas into Nebraska.

But, he noted, it will be "difficult" to obtain congressional appropriations for such a facility at this session.

Callan's comments followed on the heels of action earlier in the day by a legislative study committee unanimously requesting an emergency appropriation to permit the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation (USBR) to construct such a line.

The transmission line would connect Fort Thompson, S.D., with Grand Island.

Copies of the Legislative Council power study committee's resolution seeking congressional appropriations were forwarded to Callan and the four other members of Nebraska's congressional delegation, Gov. Frank Morrison and a host of federal officials, including President Johnson.

Blackouts Cited

The resolution pointed to last week's major power blackouts in Nebraska and noted that the state's public power facilities are now operating at "near capacity."

The proposed 345-kilovolt USBR line could carry some 400,000 kilowatts of power from the Dakotas into Nebraska. Some 200,000 kilowatts of federal power is available for transmission over the facility.

Senators signing the resolution were Harold Stryker of Rising City, William Skarda of Omaha, Dale Payne of Papillion, C. W. Holmquist of Oakland, Peter Clausen of Leigh, Elmer Wallway of Emerson, Chet Paxton of Thedford, John Knight of Lincoln and Mrs. Cecil Craft of North Platte.

Eight of the lawmakers—all but Mrs. Craft—hammered out the language of the resolution in a morning meeting at the Statehouse.

Such a transmission line would stabilize power supply in Nebraska and other Missouri River Basin states, the resolution suggested.

'Little Rough'

Contacted in Tekamah, Callan said: "I sure go along with the idea, but it's a little rough to get appropriations at this stage of the game."

Callan, a former chairman of the Nebraska Power Review Board, said appropriations probably could not be obtained until some Nebraska power agency or agencies agree to contract with the Bureau to purchase energy from the line.

"But the north-south tie would be a good one," Callan declared.

The transmission tie is supported by the Power Review Board.

The board sponsored the meeting between USBR officials and Nebraska power industry leaders at which the Bureau first outlined its willingness to construct a north-south transmission tie.

Four Proposals

Four separate USBR proposals were laid before the board and power industry leaders at a meeting in Lincoln last May.

Power Board Chairman William Norton of Osceola said he "supports this line and any other interconnections with firm sources of supply."

Members of the board conferred Thursday night with the legislative study committee at a meeting which prompted senators to draft the resolution which they adopted Friday.

Cycles For Viet Cong

Berlin (UPI)—Members of the German Writers League in East Germany pledged funds to buy 1,000 bicycles for the Viet Cong. They said in an appeal printed in the East press that they would raise funds by renouncing royalties.

On Publications

Nearly one-third of all federal "administrative" money received by the Nebraska Department of Education during the past fiscal year went into department publications, according to Assistant State Education Commissioner LeRoy Origen.

The department spent approximately $150,000 from funds allotted Nebraska under Title V of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 during the year ending June 30, he said.

Of this amount, between $40,000 and $50,000 went into production of 20 publications, mostly curriculum guides, Origen said.

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., Friday called on the Veterans Administration to install air conditioning in its three Nebraska hospitals as soon as possible.

"The delay has been an extreme hardship on many patients in the Omaha, Lincoln and Grand Island veterans hospitals during the recent heat wave," the senator said.

"For many heart patients and those with respiratory problems, relief from severe summer weather can be very important," he said.

He sent his request to W. J. Driver, Veterans Administration administrator. He had previously telephoned Driver and received a letter from him stating that "all hospitals in Nebraska qualify for complete air conditioning" under government criteria.

Curtis said Driver informed him that air conditioning is being provided in all new hospitals and in modernization projects where hospitals are located in areas meeting climatic criteria.

Curtis was advised that existing hospitals not scheduled for modernization are slated for air conditioning as part of the 12-year modernization plan.

"Many reports have come to me of an almost unbearable condition at our veterans hospitals in Nebraska during recent months," Curtis told Driver. "While I am encouraged that efforts are being made to relieve this condition as rapidly as possible, I want to urge you to include the Nebraska hospitals in a firm construction program as soon as you can."

British Jobless Up

London (AP) — Unemployed in Britain early this month numbered 264,039 an increase of 2,959 over the previous month, the government reported. The new figure is 1.1% of the employable population.

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., Friday said he would support federal action to get the airlines flying again.

He also said contracts should be negotiated so that they would expire on fewer airlines at once.

"This strike has become a strike against the public," he said.

Curtis said the staggered contract idea would preserve collective bargaining from federal supervision and protect the public.

Smaller airlines have done a good job of taking up the slack "when and where" they're allowed to, he said, naming Frontier and Ozark airlines.

...how quickly tomorrow becomes today and today fades into yesterday. Yesterday this old stern wheeler was a part of today.

Like our plans and ambitions for tomorrow it drifted into yesterday. Brother, yesterday is too late...we only have today. The gang planks will soon be raised, the lines cut and off we go into yesterday...into eternity. Today you will say 'so-long' to souls you will not see tomorrow...suddenly it's too late.

Now, even today is almost gone. How about stopping in at church next Sunday. Last Sunday is now too late. Jesus said "NOW is the accepted time."

"Don't let your todays and tomorrows turn into yesterdays.
Unless the Lord gives you tomorrow you have none.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCHGOER and a daily BIBLE READER.
